

WESTMINSTER MEETING

Growing Interest in the Evangelistic Services Now Being Conducted.

SERVICES THROUGHOUT WEEK

Afternoon Services Are More Particularly Bible-reading.

Crowded houses at both services of Westminster church on Sunday attested the growing interest in the evangelistic services now being conducted in that church by the Rev. Geo. W. Belk, evangelist of Mublenburg and Paducah Presbyteries.

In the morning Mr. Belk preached on "Heaven" and by numerous quotations of Scriptural passages threw much light on its location and characteristics. It was a sermon full of comfort to believers and of exhortation to those who are forfeiting the right to the enjoyment of it by refusing to accept Christ.

In the evening the topic of the sermon was "The Choice of Moses" and the speaker showed how even on the basis of worldly preferment it had been a wise one in that it brought to him even greater honors than he could have hoped for in Egypt, and at last entitled him to be buried by the angels of God, and to stand with the greatest of the earth on the Mount of Transfiguration.

Services will be conducted twice daily this week, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7:30 at night. The afternoon services are more particularly Bible readings, and the great doctrines of the Bible are brought out with convincing force and clearness.

The historians have been busy counting up the White House brides and rehearsing the glories of their nuptials. The last White House wedding was that of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth. Others were:

1812—Anna Todd, Mrs. Madison's cousin, and Representative John G. Jackson of Virginia.

1820—Marie Monroe, daughter of the President, to Laurence Gouverneur, his secretary.

1826—John Adams, son of President John Quincy Adams, to his cousin, Helen Jackson.

1829—Delia Lewis to Alphonse Yver Pagot, attaché of the French Legation; Marie Easton, niece of President Jackson, to Lucian B. Polk; Emily Marlin to Lewis Randolph.

1842—Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of the President, to William Waller.

1874—Nellie Grant to Algernon Sartoris.

1906—Alice Roosevelt to Representative Nicholas Longworth.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; no cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

She was born in Christian county in 1836 and was married to Thos. Evans, of North Carolina. This union was blessed by two sons, Col. J. T. Evans and Jesse E. Evans, both prominent citizens of Guthrie. After the death of her first husband, Mrs. Evans was married to T. J. Terrell of Virginia, who died nineteen years ago. Mrs. Terrell was Miss Hallie Adams, of Christian county, and besides her sons she leaves a sister, Mrs. John W. Foard, and two brothers, J. M. and W. H. Adams, all of Church Hill, this county. Her funeral services were held at Guthrie Sunday by Rev. T. T. Roberts, of this city and the interment took place in the Guthrie Cemetery.

His funeral will be held at 4 o'clock today from his residence by Rev. A. R. Kasey. The burial will be in Todd county.

DR. CLARDY QUITE ILL

Honored Citizen of This County Received Stroke of Paralysis.

NOW IN HIS 85TH YEAR.

Served In Congress, Constitutional Convention and Many Places of Honor.

Dr. John D. Clardy passed a bad night Sunday and no material change in condition was noticeable yesterday at four o'clock. The Doctor received a stroke of paralysis last Saturday. His daughter, Mrs. J. N. Prestridge, of Louisville, was telegraphed for and arrived Sunday and is now at his bedside. Dr. Prestridge arrived yesterday morning. Dr. Clardy is partially paralyzed in his left side, but is able to get on his feet and partake of some food. While he is a very sick man and his extreme age is all against his recovery, his family cling to the hope that his life may be spared. He has the sympathy of innumerable friends in the city and all over the county in his affliction. He is probably the best known man in the county and no one can say aught against him. His life has been clean and pure. He has served the people in Congress for two consecutive terms, was a member of the Constitution Convention of 1891, was a member of the Goebel Commission, a practicing physician for many years, and no man stood higher in the county than he. He is one of the largest farmers in the county, he has always been a public spirited citizen and has done more towards securing good roads in the county than anybody. As a Christian he is pointed to as a model and has long been a leader of the activities of the Baptist church. He has remained at home most of the winter, but with the load of 85 years resting upon him, he would often venture to leave his model country home, 8 miles from the city, and drive into town on business and to shake hands with those he loved to meet.

The first report sent out to the press was not entirely correct, but mainly so. Friday he got on his horse and took a ride about his farm and when he returned home he rode up to the back yard and dismounted. He started to go up the steps of the back porch and fell, close to his horse's feet. He was helped to his feet and assisted in getting to his room. Mrs. Clardy was very insistent on calling for his physician but the Doctor firmly maintained that he would soon get over the trouble. Saturday the stroke came. While there is cause for anxiety as to his recovery let all continue to hope that the end may not soon come to one of our best and most honored citizens.

HORSES LOVED BY SOLDIERS

Animals That Have Carried Leaders Through Famous Campaigns Remembered With Affection.

The fact that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, commander-in-chief of the Balkan forces, has a favorite black charger which he has named Varna, after the place of that name on the Black sea where his summer place is situated, reminds one of the affection which has existed between celebrated soldiers and the horses which have accompanied them through their numerous campaigns.

One of the most famous war horses was Lord Roberts' gallant charger, Volonel, which died a few years ago, and lies buried near the Royal hospital, Dublin. Volonel was a gray Arab which Lord Roberts bought in India, and he rode the animal to Kandahar. Lord Roberts was very much attached to the animal, and when Queen Victoria awarded medals to the soldiers who had gone through the Afghan war the hero of Kandahar proudly hung round his charger's neck the Kabul medal with four clasps and the Kandahar star of bronze.

The best known of Lord Kitchener's war horses was a handsome chestnut which he named Omdurman. The animal carried Kitchener during that battle, and ultimately went with his master to South Africa during the Boer war.

HERE'S NEW TYPE OF DESERT

Those Who Have Seen the Real Thing Would Be Surprised at Pictorial Representation.

Those who have lived in Egypt will find a source of unending surprise in the scenic offerings of "high class vaudeville" which accompany the throaty howling by a near barytone of "I Shall Love Yew Till the Hot Desert Freezes Eternally," illustrated with pictures from the East (side). It should be noted here that it is hardly fair to call a locality a "desert" at all, when it is so plentifully peopled with the cosmopolitan races presented to the public on the screen.

The pictures show a wild profusion of Bedouins, Chinese, Arabs, Moors, Greeks, Armenians, Bulgarians and Turks, with a fair sprinkling of Roman senators. In every conceivable garb, ancient and modern, lounging comfortably around the pyramids and smoking Havana cigars, English pipes, hookahs and cigarettes and mostly chewing gum. But if in his choice of population the scenic artist has done well in Egyptian scenery he has certainly surpassed himself, for you behold great clusters of pyramids, sphinxes by the dozen, camels, horses, sheep, deer, ostriches and even elephants crossing the soft sand of the alleged desert or resting beneath the English oaks, Lombardy poplars, cactus and palm trees.

And before you can get your breath a gallant knight in the uniform of the Austrian hussars, covered with a kimono and a scimitar stuck in his belt, brings his sultana into the moonlight and hugs her until the everlasting desert is removed and the applause of the audience freezes over.—New York Herald.

WOMEN HOLD HIGH POSITION

Probably in No Country in the World Are They Favored With Greater Esteem Than in Serbia.

There is no country in the world where women occupy a more dignified or honored position in the home than in Serbia. The Serbian idea is quite different from that of the Turk, who keeps his women behind shut doors, or the German, whose ideal woman is a good hausfrau. In Serbia the woman is the companion of the man.

A man is responsible for his unmarried sisters, and throughout the Balkan states it is considered rather a breach of etiquette for him to marry before his older sister.

No Serbian girl would feel she could hold up her head in society unless she could speak four languages. There is hardly a Serbian woman who cannot play some musical instrument. Embroidery, painting, drawing and sculpture are all studied. Politics is a popular feature among women.

Serbian women are very domesticated and the highest pay personal attention to trivial matters of house-keeping.

There are two women doctors practicing in Belgrade, and women teachers galore. But public opinion, on the whole, is rather against women entering the labor arena.

In Installments.

They were experts in many things, but chiefly in the art of bragging. And at the moment they were discussing their own wonderful feats as vocalists.

"Why," said the Englishman, blowing rings of smoke from his cigar, "the first time I sang in public the audience simply showered me with bouquets. Bless you, there were enough to start a flower shop!"

"Faith, an' I can beat you!" cried the Irishman. "The first time I sang was at an open air concert, and, begorra, the audience were that delighted they presented me with a house, they did!"

"A house! You must be off your head!" interrupted the Englishman, scoffingly.

"Not at all," answered Pat. "I tell ye they gave me a house—but it was a brick at a time!"—London Answers.

An Anodyne.

"An anodyne," patiently explained a well-known physician to a woman patient, "is a delusion. Any medicine that soothes pain has this drawback—it relieves the attack, but the next attack comes on much sooner. Understand, it'll cure your headache, but you're bound to have another head ache in a day or two."

The woman pondered a bit. "I know just what you mean, doctor," she said. "I've noticed it about Henry, my husband, you know. A doctor prescribed whisky for his cough. My husband says it cured his cough quicker than anything else ever did, but I notice that he gets a new cough almost every week, now."—Louisville Times.

Old Coins Really Broken.

They had an ingenious plan for meeting a shortage of small change in the old days before copper coins existed. Until the reign of Edward I. the silver penny was the smallest coin minted in England, to the great inconvenience of the small purchaser of the period. But the difficulty was to some extent got over by the issue of pennies indented with a deep cross. The coin could then be broken into halfpennies and farthings. Our first real copper coinage only dates from 1672, and until the time of Edward VI. farthings of silver were coined, growing smaller and smaller as the value of silver increased.—London Chronicle.
